Pastor's Corner

April 2023

On his way to the cross, Jesus stops at Bethany. Lazarus has died. Mary and Martha both jump on him: "Lord, if you would have been here, our brother would not have died." These are not the last two people who will ever take Jesus to task. If we haven't said it in exactly these words, we have probably come close.

In the middle of illness, death and resurrection, Jesus shows up. And he weeps with Mary and Martha. Lazarus is his friend, and even though he knows he is about to raise him from the dead, Jesus weeps. Lazarus is a sinful man. Death comes to us all. That's one thing when we say it philosophically or theologically, but it's quite different when we put someone's name to it. And so Jesus wept over Lazarus. He saw the effect it had on Mary and Martha, friends and neighbors.

Lutheran hymn-writer Jaroslav Vajda wrote a hymn called "Weep with Us, Jesus." A colleague had told him the tragic story of a car driver who blacked out on the first day of Little League in Riverside, Illinois. The car plowed into a dozen children sitting on a bench on the third base line, killing three and injuring eight. What songs shall we sing for such rare and tragic occasions such as these?

Weep with us Jesus, at our loss,
As once you wept with for Lazarus.
Who knows but you how deep our grief,
Who else but you can bring relief?

"Some good will come from this, I swear;
Till then rest on My Spirit's care.
With joy your wept-out eyes will glow
To see the bliss your loved ones know." (vv. 1,5)

As we face the tragedies of our own lives, we take comfort in a Savior who not only knows what we are going through, but weeps beside us.

In grateful response to God's grace and empowered by the Holy Spirit through Word and Sacrament, making known the love of Christ by word and deed within our church, community and the world.

Who knows? God has certainly wept over situations before we even knew of them. As we struggle with why God allows some things to happen but prevents others, we know that he never disengages himself from us. I believe it was C.S. Lewis who said that suffering is God's megaphone. Not that he caused it, but that he works through it and we hear him more profoundly in times of trouble than during our work-a-day world.

This brings to mind a similar hymn, written by Joy Patterson ("When Aimless Violence Takes Those We Love," LSB 764). How many hymns have been written in times of struggle and despair? "Lord, if you had been here!" But look at the end of this verse:

When aimless violence takes those we love,
When random death strikes childhood's promise down,
When wrenching loss becomes our daily bread,
We know, O God, You leave us not alone.

On Good Friday, God watched his Son die on the cross. For the sake of the world, he had to look away from Calvary. He could have stopped the nightmare of crucifixion at any moment, but he did not. "For God did not send his son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world might be saved through him."

Because Your Son knew agony and loss,
Felt desolation, grief and scorn and shame,
We know You will be with us, come what may,
Your loving presence near, always the same.

As you and I watch Holy Week unfold, we know what will happen. Jesus will celebrate the Passover with his disciples one last time. He will be betrayed, ridiculed, humiliated, punished and sentenced to death. He will carry his cross as far as he can. He will speak from the cross to encourage those around him. He will die. And he will rise on the third day! Alleluia!

Console us Jesus, with your touch,
Lest we be burdened overmuch.
Cry to these graves, "Release your prey!
Your grip was loosed on Easter Day." ("Weep with Us, Jesus," v. 2)

Yours in Christ,
Pastor Steven Bielenberg

He will die. And he will rise on the third day!
Alleluia!

It's a Small World After All

(reprinted from The Way to Better Health by Concordia Plan Services)

Being a child grants one a certain amount of naïveté. For example, as kids we assumed there would be an eventual maturing process of our classmates, and that the mean, or rude kids we dealt with on a day-to-day basis would one day grow up to be more well-mannered adults. With that thought, perhaps we imagined a much nicer, gracious, respectful adult world in which to live.

Gone would be the playground days of bullies getting their way either through intimidation or force simply because they were older or bigger or stronger.

Gone would be the whining shouts of “not fair” when dividing up the birthday cake or heard when report cards were issued and the grades (based on solid tangibles such as performance) weren’t favorable to some. Gone would be the hurtful remarks that kids sometimes say to one another to make themselves feel more important, to act tough, or just for the fun of it. Gone would be the unsanitary bathroom practices that somehow seem characteristic of young children, but certainly not of adults.

Jumping ahead several decades is the realization that due to our sinful natures, sadly little has changed in the adult world. Bullies still insist on getting their way, but now money or pride, or simple arrogance becomes the intimidator. Cries of “not fair” are still being bellowed, as some insist on being treated equally in society regardless of how well they perform. Hurtful remarks are still hurled at others on the roadways, at ball games, and even in our churches and schools. Not even bathroom habits have improved with age since about a third of all women and men still don’t wash their hands after using the bathroom despite the outbreaks of Hepatitis B and other diseases. I guess it’s true: everything we learned — or didn’t learn — started in Kindergarten.

So where does this lead? To anger, anxiety, and despair about the state of our sinful world? No. It leads to the cross and empty tomb where Christ’s death and resurrection forgives me and all sinners of our irksome, sometimes childish ways. These child-like habits show us that sin is still present and a part of who we are no matter our age — from birth to death. This leads us to His Word so that through the Spirit our faith may mature. This leads us to a yearning for the paradise that is to come that will take us away from the childish practices of sin and into a mature world of His heavenly realm.

Men's Anxiety and Depression Support Group

An 8-week Men's Anxiety and Depression Support Group will be starting on Wed, Apr. 12th for men (18+) dealing with anxiety and/or depression. We will meet in the library/media center on Wed. evenings from 7:00-8:00pm. The purpose of this support group is to bring Christian men together who are dealing with anxiety and/or depression to encourage, enlighten, and support one another and to approach these issues from a Christian, Biblical perspective. This group will be co-facilitated by Dr. Bob Reineck (retired psychologist) and Christina Gjelhaug (MA, marriage & family therapy), both members of King of Kings. If you are interested in participating in this group, please email either Bob (rcreineck@gmail.com) or Christina (cgjelhaug@hushmail.com) by Sunday, April 9th.

Meals on Wheels: Easter King of Kings has the opportunity to provide meals for those who may spend Easter alone without a hot meal. For many of the recipients, you will be the only person they see that day, and you will be there with a hot meal. We invite you to consider being a part of this effort to show our Christian love. On Easter Sunday, we will be preparing, assembling, and delivering a hot ham dinner with all the trimmings to the homebound. There are many ways you can help. You can help cook, carve, serve, clean-up, deliver, supply rolls or make a monetary donation for ham and supplies. Volunteer sign-up sheets are available in the Sunday worship folder.

2023 Spring Recycle Sale, Saturday, June 3 ~ 8:00am – 1:00pm

In conjunction with the Roseville City-wide Sale

We have decided to bring back the annual Women's Sale and are requesting that you start saving your gently used items for this event. We are "changing up" our sale; this is the perfect opportunity for us to re-evaluate what has worked in the past, and how to best utilize volunteers. One change to note: we will not be accepting adult clothing, only infant and children's to age 12. Watch for updates.

Women's Ministry has supported following mission projects: Sandwich Project, Christmas Shoebox project, Concordia Academy and King of Kings school scholarships, Hmong ministry, Concordia University, and provided King of Kings college students going into church work a small gift of financial assistance. Women's Ministry also coordinates funeral lunches for our church family.

We welcome your input. For questions contact Peggy or Glenn Matthees, mattheesgp@gmail.com or 651-245-2987.

Mighty mites! Thanks to everyone who donated recently to the mites box. We collected $99.86 towards the Lutheran Women's Missionary League mission goals! Some of the regional mission grants go towards scholarships at Mayer Lutheran High and Martin Luther High in Minnesota as well as the Twin Cities Blind Fellowship Outreach. We appreciate your generosity! Women's Ministry - WAIC

Lutheran Social Services Refugee Services Refugee Services needs home furnishing supplies, hygiene kits, cleaning supplies, and school supplies to settle refugee families. Our families—whether they immigrated recently like Pastor Lee and his family, or generations ago—became settled in the United States with the help of the churches. Are you moving, downsizing, or getting new home appliances or furniture? Do you have something to donate that a family or individual could use? Check out the list on the Outreach News bulletin board for a list of needed items. There will be a box in the north entryway during the week and the sanctuary on Sundays for collection.

North Parking Lot LCEF Loan Update: Our Lutheran Church Extension Fund loan balance stands at $69,669.03. The original loan was for $300,000. If you would like to contribute to this project, make out your check to King of Kings and put "Parking Lot" on the memo line or use your Joyful Response online account and click on "Building Fund." Thanks to everyone who has given so generously toward this project!
